Dedication

To Miss Briggs, our class adviser; to Miss Briggs who has always had a kind word, a witty word, and a helpful word to say; to Miss Briggs who has just been Miss Briggs.

To her we dedicate this Messenger

Foreword

When we entered Durham High we were singing a new song, "On, D. H. S.," and in the years since we have always had a song in our hearts.

Whatever it was we were doing, we have done it with a song — humming it, whistling it, singing it, but always a song.

This, then, is our book of songs.

Senior Class History

September, nineteen-fifty-one. "Too Young" was at the top of the Hit Parade. Two hundred-odd sophomores entered D.H.S. We realized that the next three years would be the most wonderful we'd ever spend, but now—it was all new, and most of us were scared to the bottom of our boots.

We went to Orientation Week programs where the seniors told us all about the school—and mainly made us feel how big, and new, it was.

We wandered around the place, tried to understand why there was no connection between the two halves of the basement, gazed in wonder at the beautiful new gym and the two cafeterias—one old and interesting, the other sunny and spacious like the gym it had been before.

We elected our sophomore class officers, Julius Compton, Elizabeth Jordan, Betty Lou Tilley, and Patsy Stegall. We chose our colors, light blue and white, our flower, the white carnation, and our motto, "Tomorrow will prove today's ambitions."

We joined clubs and societies and Student Council committees. We signed up for Hi-Rocket and Messenger staffs, went out for teams. We bought combination tickets and sat in the bleachers yelling for the Bulldogs—who came through with a four win, five lost, and three tied football season. We took part in Homecoming, putting up Elizabeth Jordan as our candidate for Queen.

Our first touch of social life was the Leap Year Hop, held, appropriately enough, on February 29. Girls asked boys to the dance and for program dances.

We followed the fortunes of the basketball team (nine wins, three losses, second in the State Champ race), baseball team (six and six), and track team (second in the State meet).

To raise money we sold Bulldog stationery. We went to the Senior Play, "Smilin' Through," a romantic tragedy.

We chose our next year's officers, Sonny Evans, Bobby Northeutt, Jane Perry, and Bug Compton.

At Graduation we bid farewell to those wonderful seniors who'd helped so much to get us acquainted with Durham High.

Singing "Auf Wiedersehen," we came back next September, much more experienced now in matters concerning Durham High. Now we were more than ever a class, instead of separate individuals. Again we sold that stationery!

The first big activity was Homecoming, and again we nominated Liz for Queen. It was exciting as ever, but this year it had an extra special touch—the state championship was depending on the game. We came through on top that time with a perfect season, but few of us will soon forget that cold December night when the State Championship game was played. We lost to Reynolds, but win, lose, or draw, we still thought our team was best!

We found ourselves having more to do with preparations for the Christmas dance. The theme this year was "Winter Wonderland."

Junior Talent Show! Just those three words were enough to bring fear to any junior's heart. Could we do it? Would it be a wonderful success or a dismal flop? We used the theme "Under the Big Top" and it was a wonderful success. We made over five hundred dollars, which we knew would mean a grand Junior-Senior Prom.

Sure enough, come May 15, the Junior-Senior came off in expert style, and we felt it was a true tribute to our class. After days of planning and decorating, the gym showed the "touch of genius." Our theme, "An Enchanted Evening on an Enchanted Island," was carried out with South Sea Island murals, a hula dancer, a mammoth lei, and a giant silver seashell throne for king and queen Edgar Fisher and Margaret Ann Kornegay.

The seniors entertained us with their play, "Double Door," a tense mystery drama superbly carried out.

We elected our class and Student Council officers—the ones whose pictures dot this book. Finally, graduation came upon us again. We couldn't believe that now we were the seniors, and would be the next to wear those fateful caps and gowns!

September again, and singing "Vaya Con Dios" we began school for the last time. Now we were the ones with obligations and responsibilities—it was we who had to print the Hi-Rocket, win the games, help the sophomores. We sponsored Orientation Week and organized again the clubs and societies, adding three new ones this year, Tillet and Blackwell Literary Societies and the Math Club. We did our best to publicize the school and to the traditional weekly "D.H.S. on Parade" added one experimental TV session.

We went about our work to the sound of construction as the new auditorium slowly rose.

Queen Elizabeth reigned over Homecoming and we cheered our team to victory in the Eastern Triple A—then many of us trekked to Winston-Salem for that heartbreaking State Championship tie with Reynolds High.

"Under the Christmas Tree," the Christmas dance, was almost completely our responsibility. Covering the gym with a giant "tree" which dwarfed the dancers to doll-size, the Social Committee achieved a thing of beauty and a memory forever.

We cheered our luckless basketball team and loved them all the same. When our classmates on the team left it, our school spirit brought us out to cheer the scrappy sophomores.

Class meeting took on a new importance as we chose the class gift (a fan for the gym), Messenger dedication, and senior play, and made plans for graduation.

Spring rolled around bringing with it baseball, track, the senior play "Children of the Moon," an unusual and touching drama.

And all of a sudden it was time for the Junior-Senior Prom. Now we were the guests, and it seemed almost a bon voyage party.

And then, the last week! Awards Day, Class Night, the Baccalaureate Sermon, and—Graduation itself. We received those precious diplomas, and then enjoyed ourselves together for the last time, at the Graduation Dance.

Now, hard as it is to believe, we are Alumni. We look back and we see the happiest three years of our lives. We look forward and proudly face the uncertain future. Tomorrow will prove today's ambitions.

Junior Class

“Forward ever, backward never.” Looking forward, we of the junior class see ahead of us one more year at Durham High—the best year of all, when we will be the seniors, the big dogs of the Bulldogs.

If we were untrue to our motto and looked back, we would see a year's work of which we can be proud. What fun we had as we slaved to take part in Homecoming Day. We worked hard to raise money—selling Christmas cards, holding a bake sale, most of all, we sponsored the annual Junior Talent Show. This year the theme was “Y’All Come.”

In April we elected the officers who will run the school next year, and then came the social climax of the year—we played host to the seniors for the traditional Junior-Senior Prom.

Our colors are blue and white, our flower, the rose.

Seated: Mary Maddry, Johnson Ross

Standing: Morris Weisner, Michael May

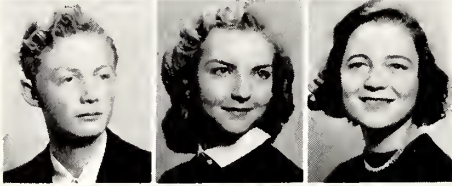

Sophomore Class

"What we are to be, we are now becoming." By the end of this, our sophomore year, we have become a class and a comradeship. We came this September as seared "skins"—individuals from different junior highs, not knowing each other or the school. But Orientation Week, the help of our homeroom teachers, and advice from upperclassmen told us about Durham High and its activities. We ate ice cream together after Orientation programs, and we got to know each other better. We elected our officers, chose our motto, our colors (red and white) and our flower (carnation). We joined clubs and societies. We took part in Homecoming. We united in the first presentation to the school of Sophomore Stunt Day, and later produced a screamingly successful "Backwards Wedding."

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS

Seated: Elizabeth Jordan, Sonny Evans, Standing: Bill Cozart, David Montgomery.

Student Council

"Suggestions, please!" was our by-word this year. We encouraged the student body to put ideas in the suggestion box, and debated them back and forth. We sent out a report accounting for every suggestion—what was being done about it, or why it wouldn't work. For the first time in D.H.S. history our meetings were open to all students.

Through our committee we kept all the many trophies polished and decorated for special occasions, kept track of who-did-what in their D.H.S. careers, brought "It happens Every Spring" and many another enjoyable activity period to D.H.S. students, kept our school in the public eye via radio, newspaper, and poster, sponsored "Under the Christmas Tree" and rainy-day lunchtime music, and tried to keep the students in the right place at the right time.

INTER-CLUB COUNCIL OFFICERS

Seated: Bill Cozart, Anne Maxwell. Standing: Miss Ruby Williams, Adviser, Arnette Johnson.

Better planning of the school organizations was our chief aim. This year we studied parliamentary procedure and other means of better club and society meetings. We invited the other officers to meetings designed to help them. We organized two new societies, one boy's and one girl's, and one new club in order to give more students a chance to take an active part in school activities. We again published the Student Directory, for the benefit of the whole student body, as well as our treasury.

LINOTYPE · MONOTYPE · HAND COMPOSITION

We have all 3 Types of Composition

WHEN setting type we give due consideration to the ultimate purpose . . . In deciding whether to use linotype, monotype or hand composition, we first ascertain the function of the particular piece of work. Each method was designed for a specific service, therefore initial cost is beside the question. We shall be glad to assist you in deciding which of the three will do the best job for your particular problem. Our composing room service is planned for today's demands.

RECESSIONAL Class Song Class of 1954

Class Poem

Written by Chris Mecca

Upon this graduation day,
Blended with memories that shall never fade,
We stand upon this shore,
Proud of the past, secure in present,
Hopeful of the future.
As we meet our test, the view before is hazy,
Hard to see, uncharted; this will never faze us—
We are sustained by confidence that's helped us twelve long years.
We hope to span the torrents and the fears of life
With a bridge unshakable, untarnished,
Towering to the sky, defying darkness.

And so we march ahead,
Guided by friends and loved ones.
We step upon the road of life,
Hearing the mighty strains of an all-inspiring Tone,
And from the rolling echoes, we gain strength,
Leading us ever onward toward our goals,
Filled with gladness, joy, and faith,
Cast in a radiant mold.

Class Song '54

Words by John Loudermilk (Tune: "Anchors Aweigh")

All hands on board the deck
Heave to the sails
It takes cooperation of each matie
At each station
Look ever to the stars
True guidance be
Our voyage will succeed if we will
Pick the brightest one we see.

We reach with hands that's young
But hands that's strong
And grasp the wheel that guides us
On to brilliant realms that wait us
Choose then a pilot brave
Who's never failed
Our rusty anchors up we'll head for deeper
Waters yet unsailed.

Class Prayer

Written by Frances Page

O, Lord, we the Class of '54 come together, bowing humbly in Thy presence, both to ask and to give.
We ask Thee to guide us in the future, now shining before us—May our hopes be always high, our Faith firm, our strength locked in trust of Thee. Keep us ever near Thee, never forgetting that Thou art our Master.
We give unto Thee our grateful thanks, dear Father,
that, departing, we may take with us remembrances of this,
our school, ever to be endeared in our hearts. We thank Thee for our opportunities to look back into the past pleasantly, and to look into the future cheerfully.
Bless each member of this class O God, and all who helped them through their school years, and let each one continue striving to attain the goals instilled in them at Durham High. This we pray in hope that it will be worthy of Thy acceptance, praying that it will be answered as Thou seest fit, knowing that this is the only right way, we offer this prayer in Christ's name.—Amen.
